Description and curriculum:

The goal of the study program of justice and public administration is to acquire fundamental knowledge in the areas of the functioning of law, such as the organization of the judiciary and constitutional judiciary, but also in the area of legal culture. The program is fully aligned with the goals of the Faculty of Legal Sciences, which are related to the education of future lawyers for work in the judiciary, state administration and economy by imparting both traditional and new, modern knowledge that is in line with the requirements of the times to come. The faculty also aims to enable a part of future lawyers to engage in scientific work, to deepen their theoretical knowledge, as well as to prepare for work on scientific projects.

The study program international law aims to provide a multidisciplinary and diverse analysis of international law with the intention of a more complete and comprehensive understanding and study of all relevant institutes of this branch of law as well as its relationship with internal (domestic) law, so that students can expand and deepen their knowledge of this area and develop critical awareness, and acquire highly specialized knowledge and skills that they will be able to apply in further theoretical and practical work.
